DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 132 and 33 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection necessitated by amendment.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Quatresooz (Mechanobiology and force transduction in scars developed in darker skin types, Skin research and technology, Volume 12 Issue 4 Page 279-282, November 2006).

Pascale Quatresooz discloses that some subtle mechanical properties of skin can be assessed by measuring the speed of ultrasound shear wave propagation. Furthermore Quatresooz teaches In these cases, low RRTM values were obtained with little variations according to the orientation of the measurements. By contrast, atrophic scars showed a streaky laddering melanotic pattern under dermoscopy. Higher RRTM values were often obtained, particularly in the transversal direction of the scars. Mechanical anisotropy was greater in the atrophic scars compared with the normal skin.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 32 and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Quatresooz in view of official notice.

Quatresooz teaches the use of ultrasound and the evaluation of shear wave to study the mechanical property of the skin. Furthermore Quatresooz discloses that Higher RRTM values were often obtained, particularly in the transversal direction of the scars.

Mechanical anisotropy was greater in the atrophic scars compared with the normal skin.

Therefore it would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made that analyzing the skin by means of the apparatus according to Quatresooz was completed in order to study the mechanical properties of the normal and damaged skin tissue to conclude the research study.

6. Re Claim 34: the limitation of claim 34 is not further limiting the claim 32.
